

Colour, habitat and distribution of Hisonotus hungy.

Stefan Koerber

Friesenstr. 11, 45476 Muelheim, Germany, pecesciollos@koerber-germany.de, www.pecesciollos.de additional figures to:

Azpelicueta, M., A.E. Almirón, J.R. Casciotta & S. Koerber (2007): Hisonotus hungy sp. n. (Siluriformes, Loricariidae, Otothyridini), a new species from arroyo Tirica, Misiones, Argentina.

Revue Suisse de Zoologie 114 (3):591-598

fig. 1

Arroyo Tirica, still a natural habitat downstream the bridge (photo: S. Koerber)

fig. 2

Arroyo Tirica, fishing upstream the bridge (photo: S. Koerber)

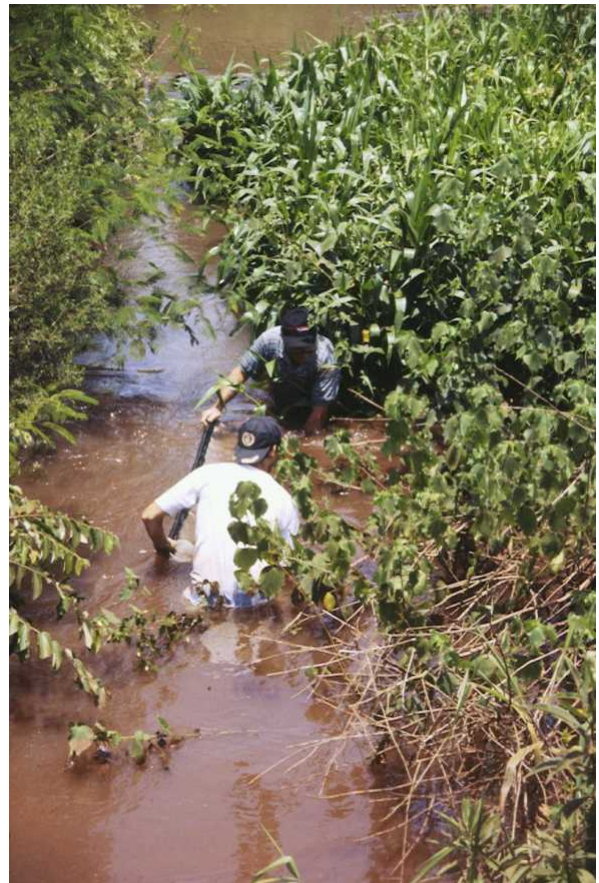

fig. 3

Arroyo Tirica, modified environment upstream the bridge (photo: Stefan Körber)

fig. 4

Hisonotus hungy, taken at type locality and later kept in aquarium (photo: Ingo Seidel)

fig. 5

Map of type locality and surrounding area in Misiones, Argentina, as published in Casciotta et al. (2003).

- A = Iguazú waterfalls
- B = historic location of the waterfall and actual position of hydroelectric dam, separating upper arroyo Urugua-í from the río Paraná basin
- 1-5 = collecting localities of type specimens of Australoheros tembe
- 6 = arroyo Tirica, type locality of *Hisonotus hungy
- 7 = collecting locality of Australoheros cf. tembe
- 8 = type locality of Corydoras carlae

(Map used here with friendly permission by Oliver Gehring and DATZ)

to be cited as:

Koerber, S. (2007):

Colour, habitat and distribution of Hisonotus hungy.

Ichthyological Contributions of Peces Criollos 6: 1-3 available as pdf-file at www.pecescrilloos.de since 23.x.2007